Coast Stevedores Can Make Situtation Serious If They Declare Cargo Loaded Here By Non-Union Men To Be 'Unfair'

"No Japanese stovedore will join the strike of the Honolulu stevedores' union, as far as I know,' said T. Mizusaki, luna of more than one hundred Nipponess dockworkers, yesterday afternoon, to a representative of The Adver-tiser. Mixusaki was working with this men at the time in Pier 16, loading the Matson steamer Mat-

"No Japanese under my control is a member of the stevedores' union," continued the luna. "About four months ago I was asked to join the union and try to get my men into the organization; but I refused to do so, giving as my reason that we were not Amer-tean citizens. 'We have no intention of going on strike for better wages, or any other reason. We will rely on the fair-mindedness and sincerity of the shipping companies, and I believe they will pay us fair wages for our labor when they see that Japanese are diligent and useful workers.

"Por this reason it is not neces sary for us to go on strike."

A strike of Honolulu stevedores, which has been simmering a long time, broke at seven o'clock yesterday morning, when about 300 men, most of whom were Hawaiians, did not show up to work the Matson steamer Matsonia and other vessels. They were members of the newty-organized Honolulu local, No. 3826, of the International Longshoremen's Association.

J. H. Drew, manager of the shipping department of Castle & Cooke, Matson agents, said that he believed the Matsonia would get away on time at ten o'clock tomorrow morning. Effect of the strike on the Lurline is problematical. McCabe, Hamilton & Renny, the stevedering firm, had seven gangs, about 210 men, working the Matsonia. There were besides, eighty Hawaiians not members of the union who remained at stevedering firm, had seven gangs, about 210 men, working the Matsonia.

Coast Assistance Expected

Jack Edwardson, searctary of the Sailora' Union, who organized the longshoremen, said that cooperation and assistance of the Coast locals of the longshoremen was expected. He asserted that the recent settlement between the employers and union men on the Coast provided that union men should be emplayed at ports in which locals of the union existed.

"There is one here now," he said. "I believe that the Coast men are bound to help us, I expect to hear soon. But it makes no difference what they do: We are going right ahead.' If cargo loaded here by non-union men is declared "unfair" at San Francisco the effect would be serious.

He said further that ample time would be given the Honolulu steamship ngencies to decide what to do, and that, until time had been given, perhaps twenty-four or forty-eight hours, carge loaded here would not be objected to by the Honolulu union as to discharge on

Opinion is divided on the waterfront as to how much the union will be able to do. There were seven gangs, about 210 men in all, on the Matsonia; three, of thirty-six men on the Peruvian bark Belfast; two, of thirty, on the British steamer Kestrel. All in all, there were about 276 men at work. About 116 were picked up by scouring the streets according to Captain Macphail's estimate. Edwardson laid emphasis on the fact that express men and others were taken for stevedoring work. The shifting about of men to and from stevedoring makes it difficult to give any clearer idea of the situation here,

(Associated Press by Pederal Wireless.) SEATTLE, September 19-A sympathetic strike of longshoremen on the Atlantic coast will be asked by the locals of the longshoremen's union. J. G. Kelley, vice-president of the inter-national union, will leave here today to urge T. M. O'Connor of Buffale, presideat of the international organization, and other officials, to consider calling a sympathetic strike all along the Atlactic coast.

If the request of the Pacific Coast long-horemen is granted it is declared that the first move of the eastern locals will be to refuse to unload ships arriving there, which have been loaded by the non-union men on the west Coast.

The strike, should it be called, will force the shipping companies of the Pacific Coast to grant the demands of the men, say the officials of the unious.
